Bro. Cable, the talented and enterprising editor of the Nelsonville News, was a visitor in our city on last Saturday and accompanied to Queen city display was astounded and bewildered at our metropolitan proportions. The enterprising young man is invited to come up and see us often and become acquainted with our city around which the Nelsonville suburb, quietly, gently and inoffensively circulates.

Last week we published notice of the thrilling, startling, portentous phenomena on the Carlyle road leading from Lancaster, a snow storm of snakes! Three kinds, wedged shaped, spotted and striped. The drugs of the seven vials of wrath, only can bring or breed such horror from the clouds, and only Ash Cave, pine knot, moon shine whiskey could inspire such a delirium among the editors of Lancaster who say they saw and report the snake shower. The snow drifts undulated with the wriggling mass like waves on the bosom of the sea! The worms died on being spread out to warm on a late copy of the Eagle! "Such a sight, O, such a sight," said Deacon Hix.

If the Carlyle road led from the State Farm, or the Lancaster & Hamden station at Ash Cave, we might have a view to the horridly cloud burst. We are told decisively, that the roads leads from Lancaster. Where does it lead to, and how far from Lancaster is its termination? The story has been told us in prose by the Lancaster Laureate of the Gazette that once, a Lancaster emigrant in the volcanic regions of the wild west took a drink from a bubbling spring at the road side. The boiling hot water from the spring under the snow capped mountains scalded his mouth. He yelled frantically to John to drive on quick, he was not far off. Can not the Laureate hear far off, his Muse, the voice of Neddy calling to his companions submerged in the wriggling mass of worms falling from the snow cloud and making the ground heave and roll like waves on the ocean, to hurry along, it is only a little way over the hill to the Institute.
